

Hutchens, Senter & Britton Names Lonnie M. Player, Jr., Partner

FAYETTEVILLE, WILMINGTON and RALEIGH, N.C., Sept. 7, 2006 – Hutchens, Senter & Britton, P.A., an established foreclosure and civil litigation law firm based in Fayetteville, North Carolina, announced today that Lonnie M. Player, Jr. has been named as partner of the law firm.

“We are extremely proud of Lonnie, an attorney who demonstrates his commitment to the community, his profession and this firm each and every day,” said Terry Hutchens, managing partner, Hutchens, Senter & Britton. “Our firm is fortunate to count Lonnie as one of its partners. It is recognition that he has earned and well deserves.”

Recently, Player also was named president of the Cumberland County Bar Association.

Player received his law degree from University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, a master’s degree from the University of Texas, Austin, and his undergraduate degree from Duke University. Player is a member of the Cumberland County, North Carolina and American Bar Associations and concentrates his practice in commercial litigation, corporate transactions and creditors’ rights.